INTRO

In 1996 Jan Udo Holey, better known by the pseudonym Jan van Helsing, proclaimed in an interview with ZeitenSchrift, a magazine for more quality and truth in life: "The time of hushing up is over!" Jan van Helsing is a bestselling author of numerous books of enlightenment. In the interview he explained how he came up with the pseudonym he uses: "In Bram Stoker's novel 'Dracula', Professor van Helsing represents the vampire hunter who in the end hunts down the vampire. In my books I reveal machinations that are taking place behind the scenes. And somehow these structures can be compared to vampires, because they live at the expense of others and rip off both the common man and the state and rake in their money. An interesting aspect of the story of Bram Stoker is that van Helsing does not destroy the vampire Dracula with an oak stake, as is common in the vampire business, but exposes him to the sunlight, where Dracula turns to dust. This is also the symbolism in the pseudonym, not to destroy the power structures by fighting, but by exposing their deeds. Where there is light the shadows must give way. [...]" May this VnC bring more light into the dark areas of current world affairs! [1]

The murder of Soleimani and the myth of the "fight against terrorism"

dd/mb. Three days after the assassination of the Iranian Major General Qasem Soleimani on January 3rd, 2020 at Baghdad airport in Iraq, Swiss Radio and Television SRF quoted US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo: He was confident that the Iraqis would continue to welcome the US presence to fight terrorism on their behalf. "Fight terrorism?!" Shouldn't this make our alarm bells ring? Not so for SRF and the other media brought into line. Here are some facts about the alleged "War on Terror": In 2015 the medical association Physicians for Social Responsibility (PSR) published a groundbreaking study to identify the victims of the "War on Terror". The PSR study concluded that about one million people were killed as a direct or indirect result of the US-led war in Iraq, explicitly stressing that the actual number could be much higher. For Afghanistan, the PSR calculated that 220,000 people have been killed since the US invasion in 2001 and 80,000 in Pakistan. In addition, according to the Bureau of Investigative Journalism, Obama's illegal drone war in Pakistan, Afghanistan, Somalia and Yemen resulted in another 5,435 deaths. Therefore there is no doubt that the so-called "fight against terrorism" caused many more deaths than terrorism itself, which was fought only superficially. Thus the "War on Terror" turns out to be the actual terrorism and the question arises whether the goal is really fighting terrorism or whether other covert objectives are being pursued. According to the free economic journalist F. William Engdahl, the "War on Terror" in reality is a war against Islam. And this would just be a means to an end in a much more important project: ensuring America's threatened supremacy and their military presence in the world. [2]

Syria: OPCW falsified report on poison gas attack

mab. On April 7th, 2018, there was a poison gas attack in the Syrian city of Duma, which was immediately blamed on the Syrian President Assad. The West, under the leadership of the USA, reacted to this with a retaliatory strike and fired over 100 cruise missiles at Syrian targets. This happened, despite the fact that the alleged poison gas attack has not yet been conclusively investigated by the international and supposedly independent Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW). The OPCW submitted its final report in March 2019. With regard to the use of poison gas, the report was not conclusive, but it was formulated in a way that Assad

rs. Thomas Roeper, well-founded media critic and operator of the German-speaking website 'anti-spiegel.ru', incessantly exposes the one-sided propaganda reporting of the German magazine 'Der Spiegel'. In his article of November 14th, 2019 he wrote: "On November 7th, 2019 'Der Spiegel' quoted US Secretary of State Pompeo when he warned of an allegedly 'rapid nuclear breakthrough' from Iran. The problem is that this is pure propaganda, as 'Der Spiegel' also knows. To build an atomic bomb, uranium must be enriched to over 90 percent. However, Iran is far from that. According to information from the Iranian government, uranium is only enriched up to 20 percent at the plant in the Iranian Fordo. At the same time, it is ensured that it will not be enriched any further, because Iran still allows inspections by the International Atomic Energy Agency. So Iran is still completely transparent. To speak of the danger of an atomic bomb is thus pure repetition of US propaganda and has nothing to do with journalism." [3] could still be pilloried. On April, 16th 2019, a whistleblower* accused the OPCW of having falsified the final report in order to get the result desired by the West. On November 23rd, 2019, the whistle-blowing platform Wikileaks reported another whistleblower. On December 16th, 2019, it became clear that there is already a third whistleblower at the OPCW. This is a scientist who worked on site and who accuses the OPCW of having written in its report the opposite of what the so-called Fact-Finding Mission has found out on site. It is a huge scandal that hardly any article about the fake OPCW report can be found in the mainstream media. [4]

r./br. In a resolution, the EU Parliament has called on Russia to abolish a law on foreign agents. This law obliges organizations that are politically active in Russia and are financed from abroad to register as “foreign agents” and to clearly identify themselves as “foreign agents” in their publications. How double-faced the EU Parliament’s demand is, is reflected by the fact that it does not make the same demand to the USA, where an even stricter law has existed for 80 years. While the Russian channel Russia Today had to register in the USA as a foreign agent and is severely obstructed in its work, Russia, has not applied such a law to the Deutsche Welle channel despite the station openly called for anti-government demonstrations in Russia, which a Russian media outlet in a Western country would rather not dare to do. The obvious double moral standards of the West become particularly clear in this case: While the West interferes in internal affairs anywhere at will and refers to resistance as “restriction of freedom of the press and freedom of opinion”, it massively restricts freedom of the press itself when the press supports a dissenting opinion. [5]

rb. In an information leaflet published by the Independent Party Committee of Information (Parteiunabhängiges Informationskomitee, PIKOM), Sabina Geissbuehler-Strupler, Grand Councillor of the Swiss canton of Berne, questions the argument that we are dependent on the influx of foreign specialists due to a domestic shortage of skilled workers: “Shortage of skilled workers is a catchword that has been around for some time. Professions with high qualifications are particularly affected, according to a study by the ETH Zurich. On the other hand – in relation to the Canton of Berne – we note that the number of students at the university has increased by about 135 percent, from about 7,500 to 17,500 between 1980 and 2015, while the number of inhabitants has remained more or less the same. Based on these figures, there should not really be a shortage of skilled workers! Obviously, there is a lot going wrong! Should not the choice of courses to study be better regulated? Or do we leave it to endless freedom of choice for students to study courses that produce unemployed academics and then bring in specialists from abroad?” [7]

Popular vote in Switzerland: Say NO to the extended censorship law

rg./mb. On 02/09/2020, the Swiss people voted on whether the anti-racism penal norm should be extended by the term “sexual orientation”. Homosexual and bisexual people should thus be better protected from hatred and discrimination. Opponents point out that criminal law already provides sufficient legal bases to defend oneself against defamation, insult, threat, libel or slander. In a 11/27/2019 press release, the voting committee “No to this censorship law” referred to a legal opinion by the lawyer Prof. Dr. Isabelle Haener. There were 38 factual and fictitious cases presented to her for assessment which could possibly lead to a conviction in the future. According to the expert opinion, the expected encroachment on the freedom of conscience, belief and trade by paragraph 5 of the racism criminal norm, the so-called “refusal to perform”, would be particularly serious. Here are two representative examples: The operators of a private adoption service could be faced with the alternative of either placing children with married same-sex couples or discontinuing their services. Their belief that children are best cared for by a father and mother would thus be indirectly criminalized. Even a dating agency platform where one can only search for partners of the opposite sex would have to expect consequences under the penal code. For the preservation of freedom of expression! No to the extended censorship law! [6]

“Let us never forget: Words and thoughts have wings – they spread invisibly and are unstoppable, and everyone who thinks along the same lines reinforces their power. Every turn for the better began with a bold thought that just would not go away.”
