~ No. 8/20: VACCINATION ~

INTRO

Reports are piling up over all the world that children die after vaccines have been injected into them. Furthermore, many diseases like autism, autoimmune diseases, physical and mental disabilities and many more have been associated with vaccinations. As the signs increase that a vaccine causes these diseases, it is usually withdrawn from the market for a short period of time. But only to reappear on the market after some time without being changed. It is declared safe and used again. Sometimes viruses are developed just for research purposes. When viruses are released by whatever means, a pharmaceutical company is ready to develop or offer a vaccine almost instantly. The vaccination business is particularly profitable for the pharmaceutical industry. The negative consequences will not be noted and mitigated by the pharmaceutical industry nor by government and supervisory authorities. The Editor (pg.)

WHO Deputy Director-General drops vaccine bomb

gz. A congress on vaccine safety was held in Geneva, Switzerland, on December 2nd and 3rd, 2019. In a video of the event which leaked to the public, the Deputy Director-General of the World Health Organization (WHO), Dr. Soumya Swaminathan, said that vaccines are dangerous and that they might kill people. She said: "One should be able to give a very factual account of what exactly happens, what the cause of the fatalities is, but in most cases there is a certain amount of veiling at this level and therefore there is less and less confidence in the system." Only a few days earlier, she publicly affirmed vaccines to be the safest tools of mankind. The admission of this scientist raises the question: If vaccines kill people, and this is even known to the WHO, why are they still presented as being safe? [2]

Trendsetting US legal victory over compulsory vaccination

be. In the USA, compulsory vaccinations can now be legally stopped. Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and Del Bigtree*, both frontline experts, were able to achieve this through their committed engagement against Big Pharma on behalf of the American people. In their research, they came across government documents that prove that there has been no quality tests for government-approved vaccines in the last 32 years. It may also be possible to call those involved with these vaccination laws to account. The commitment of these men shows that it is worth taking up the fight against Big Pharma so that this groundbreaking victory can continue on in other countries as well. [3]

Bill Gates – “father” of a coronavirus

pg. On October 18th, 2019, Bill Gates with his Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation staged the simulation of an outbreak of a pandemic caused by a coronavirus. In the context of this “exercise” which was being carried out by the John Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health and the World Economic Forum in New York, Gates prognosticated 65 million fatalities dying from a coronavirus in a global outbreak. Coronavirus is the generic term for a group of naturally occurring viruses. A virus from this group was developed by the Pirbright

Institute and submitted to the European Patent Office in 2015 and patented in 2018. Besides the British government, this institute is also financed by the Bill Gates Foundation. Bill Gates, co-owner of this virus patent did not only prognosticate its rise, but is also a supporter of a coalition of biotech companies wanting to develop a coronavirus vaccine. This approach is very similar to the Hegelian principle: First you create a problem, then you create a reaction and after that you offer a solution. Not entirely unselfish, of course. [1]

Shoot measles sparrows with law cannons?

sts. The German measles protection law passed in 2019 came into force on March 1st, 2020. Children and employees of various institutions are affected by this law. Measles is described as a dangerous, highly contagious disease that can only be mastered through compulsory vaccination. The reasoning for the bill includes the following statement: According to the Robert Koch Institute (RKI), 420 cases of measles had been recorded by the end of May 2019. This number is not even particularly high, as there has been an average of about 950 cases per year over the last ten years. For the expected additional vaccinations of 1.57 million persons, an additional burden of up to 74 million euros is expected for the statutory health insurance funds for 2020 and 2021 and 8.4 million euros for the providers of private health insurance. Although only 0.0012% of the population suffers from the disease each year, basic rights are considerably restricted by the vaccination. Here a mosquito is turned into an elephant, with large consequences for the population and much advantage to the pharmaceutical industry. Why this was not noticed by the 459 members of the German Parliament who voted for the measles protection law, one should form their own opinion. [4]

Vaccination numbers past and present

be. In a message from the Standing Committee on Immunization (STIKO) at the German Robert Koch Institute (RKI) we read "An important task for a physician is to ensure adequate immunization for all persons under his care. This means starting primary immunization early in infants and toddlers, administering these vaccines without delays and completing vaccination schedules in a timely manner (before the age of 2)." The numbers of recommended vaccinations have changed considerably in recent years. While for a child born in Germany in 1983, 14 vaccinations were recommended by the age of 15, in 2013 already 40 vaccinations by the age of 2, and 59 vaccinations by the age of 15. „If a person born today would reach 80 years of age and receive all recommended vaccinations, he would receive 150 vaccinations during his life.“ But has the population also become healthier since 1983?[5]

“There has never been a single vaccine in this country [USA, also Germany] that has ever been submitted to a controlled scientific study. They never took a group of 100 people who were candidates for a vaccine, gave 50 of them a vaccine and left the other 50 alone, and measured the outcome. And since that has never been done, that means if you want to be kind, you will call vaccines an unproven remedy. If you want to be accurate, you’ll call the people who give vaccines quacks.”

Robert S. Mendelsohn, M.D. – US-American physician and vaccine critic

Vaccination deaths – or all just coincidence?

str. In 2011, there were increasing reports of devastating effects from vaccines designed to protect against meningitis and pneumonia in Japan. After four children died shortly after a combined vaccination, the Ministry of Health suspended the use of “Prevenar” and “ActHIB” products from Pfizer and Sanofi-Aventis. Since different vaccines and their additives are administered in a combined vaccination, their interactions with the human body cannot be foreseen. Therefore, a vaccine is far more dangerous if it is combined and not administered one after another. Although there were similar cases in the Netherlands in 2009, the Ministry in Japan announced after only a few days that the deaths were not related to the vaccines. These may be used again. Were these just coincidences? How many such “coincidences” does it take until everyone can recognize the pattern behind it? [7]

Goal of measles elimination is based on false assumptions

rl. The Robert Koch Institute writes about the measles vaccination: “...after two doses... in the context of basic immunization, it can be assumed that immunity will last a lifetime.” But it is undisputed that a person can still fall ill with this disease. Even if there is a protection against the disease after the basic immunization, this protection diminishes after a more or less short time. In simple terms, this means that the official goal of how measles is to be finally defeated is based on false assumptions. [6]

Feigned protection by the supervisory authority

pg. Three months after his bone marrow transplant, Chris Long from Reno, Nevada, USA, learned that the DNA in his blood had changed. Four years later, to the surprise of scientists and doctors, not only his blood had changed. All the DNA in his sperm cells was replaced by that of the donor. If he had fathered a child, it would have had the characteristics of the bone marrow donor and not his. When vaccinating, vaccines with “live” proteins behave in a similar way: Here too, stem cells take over the genetic information of the vaccinated DNA. This has already been proven in a study with mice. Foreign DNA was detected in one of the vaccines that are in use as of March 2020 due to the upcoming compulsory measles vaccination. The vaccine against Measles, Mumps, Rubella and Chickenpox (MMRV, Priorix Tetra from GSK) contained the DNA of a male fetus as a contaminant. As a result, also in the case of vaccinations, there would be a risk that foreign genetic material (DNA) could change one’s own. DNA vaccines are not approved for humans. Would then vaccines not have to be tested for contamination of foreign DNA? In response to a related inquiry to the Paul Ehrlich Institute (Germany) in this regard, the institute did not see the need to carry out such a study. Why then do we need a supervisory authority which pretends to protect consumers but in fact protects vaccination companies? [8]

Closing Point •

As is shown in this issue, one can assume that the public is being fooled when the pharmaceutical industry claims that the preparations of vaccine manufacturers are safe and effective. Robert F. Kennedy jr. made the following statement in September 2019: “We are fighting against a pharmaceutical industry that appears to be overpowering, whose profit interests are placed higher than the health interests of people worldwide. They make 50 billion dollars selling vaccines. And they make $500 billion selling the drugs for the secondary diseases!”
