

The other Side of the Vaccination

What every proponent of the compulsory vaccination has got to know.

- The origin of vaccinating is alarming. Napoleon used vaccinations for selection. Who got over it without damage, received a position in the state or in the military. What was left were blind ones, deaf ones paralyzed ones and lots of them died. [1]
- Pasteur became famous by one single apparently successful case that can never ever counted as a proof for the effectiveness of a vaccination and he did not have to ever prove it afterwards. Even today you can only prove antibodies, that are never a proof for the protection from a disease. One cannot become immune by getting a vaccination but only through a real infection. [2]
- Disease statistics prove: No mass vaccination but only improved life conditions (hygiene, more balanced nutrition) are responsible for the decrease of diseases. [2] [3]
- In Switzerland there has never been a smallpox epidemic. The only and true reason for this was: There a smallpox vaccination didn't exist. [2]
- Mumps epidemic (in 1999, Switzerland): 75% of the ones who got ill were vaccinated. This is just one proof of many, which show the ineffectiveness of vaccinations. [2] (Kneipp and Hahnemann, respected natural health therapists, never vaccinated.) [2]
- A vaccination can never protect us from a disease. It only blocks its natural healing process. The consequence: Vaccinated people get sick from other, often new diseases or get childhood diseases only after their puberty. They often experience a much more difficult course of disease since they do not have any natural antibodies. [2]
- Whilst the mass media rightenes the population, if they don't get vaccinated, there is silence about the massively health affecting preservatives. They do not even have to be declared. Among them there are antibiotics, 98% pure nerve poisons such as mercury, formaldehyde (forbidden to be used for the production of furniture) and aluminium compounds and much more. The production of many vaccines is based on genetically modified cells or "material" of aborted foetuses. [2] [4] [5]
- The consequences are often: allergies, asthma, diabetes, meningitis, MS, autism, physical and mental disability and not seldom sudden infant death.[6] Vaccinations have caused more suffering and death than any other human activity in the entire history of medicine.[2]
- Vaccination – a billion dollar business, especially for the pharmaceutical industry. In Switzerland alone, over 80 million CHF for example were spent for 13 million of vaccines against the swine flu, whereas 10.5 million of vaccines (about 64.5 million CHF tax money) were finally disposed unused. [7] [8]
- The antibody level which is supposed to be the protection, does not come into effect until three weeks after the vaccination. By that time the outbreaks, "epidemics" of measles, mumps, influenza, etc. are long ago abated. This means that the vaccination is worthless when it comes to an epidemic. [1]
- Moreover not only after the swine flu one question arises: Who exactly defines an epidemic? Are laboratory diagnoses sufficient, which can neither be challenged by other laboratories nor doctors? Authorities, experts and the WHO were in error in the case of the swine flu. 20 people died throughout Switzerland. With a seasonal flu annually 400-1000 people die without calling it an epidemic. [9] [10]

Who still says 'Yes' to the compulsory vaccination despite all these indisputable facts, has to be fully aware of his big responsibility concerning the consequences resulting from it for the population.
